MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1884.

Once more we call attention to the maxim, "He laughs best who laughs last."

This new opera house erected by the Washington Light Infantry will be opened to-night.

This unripe state would be a good name for New York. No candidate can play against it this time and win.

Misses Barnum, Manning, and Gorman, to say nothing of Private Secretary Emmett, "conquer" the election of Grover Cleveland. That ought to settle it.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has issued his annual thanksgiving proclamation. If the official omen should give Blaine the electoral vote of New York Mr. Cleveland and his managers can hardly think that it was worth.

A MAN with the formidable name of Smith has an address in the ranks of the democratic executive committee of New York, indicating that the infamous republican scheme of having a fair count to-morrow, its latest resort to the grand army of the local bourgeoisie should sit on a scale of justice and give his heated brains a chance to cool.

As this only open and admitted election fraud thus far made public in New York was committed by democrat, it will strike a disconcerting public that the bourgeois bluffs without violation of the rules of good sense and common decency lay on their frightful braying about republican frauds that have no existence except in their imagination.

Turing is nothing heroic in the name of Jones, but the country will look upon that name with something akin to pride in view of that address issued Saturday over the signature of H. P. Jones, chairman of the republican national committee.
The nation is as proud of Jones as-day as it is humiliated and ashamed of its Barnums and Germans and Manning.

INFORMATION is received that the newly-elected Colorado legislature stands 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, and 28, Teller.
That ought to make the secretary of the United States. If Mr. Blaine shall be found to have a plurality of only one vote, prompt measures will be expected from the democrats of the United States.

While the republican party, by its action, after the facts are known, will unquestionably bring out the committee's assurance of a prompt acquiescence in Mr. Cleveland's election, if he shall be elected.

In view of the near approach of Thanksgiving, he should make arrangements to give thanks to God, and give his heated brains
a chance to cool.

The republican party, with its characteristic reverence for law, while believing that its candidate will-to-morrow be found to have received a plurality of the vote cast in New York, appeals solely to the result of the lawful canvas, and declares that if it shall therein be made apparent that Mr. Cleveland instead of Mr. Blaine has received a plurality, he will promptly be recognized by his late political opponents as the unquestioned head of the nation for the next four years. The republican national committee in its address given to the country will voice the sentiment of the republican party when it says:

"Mr. Cleveland shall be found to have a plurality of even one vote, a prompt acquiesce will follow from the republicans of the United States. If Mr. Blaine shall be found to have a plurality of only one vote, prompt

On the contrary, there is every indication that that party has made up its mind to rest its case on such telegraphic reports as have appeared to make out Mr. Cleveland's election, and to resist the award of the trial established by the laws of New York for declaring the results of its election, if that award should give a plurality to Mr. Blaine. No prominent democrat, no democratic journal, nor any body authorized to speak for the party has suggested that it will be the duty of democrats to smother their natural disappointment, and act the part of good law-abiding citizens if it shall be made plain that Mr. Blaine instead of Mr. Cleveland has carried the election.

On the contrary, the course of the democratic newspapers, of the democratic national committee, and of prominent democrats has been expressly directed to working the mass of the party up to the point of resisting any decision adverse to Cleveland. In the face of the fact that another candidate will be likely to be nominated, and that anybody who harbors a thought to the contrary must be content playing the commission of a deaf fandango upon the ballot box.

republican cause.
